ENROLLMENT

Students of both sexes are admitted. Preference will be given to those who wish to pursue the work for professional reasons. Enrollment may be for the summer term only or for the entire year. A tuition fee of fifty dollars is charged unless the student is a member of a supporting institution. Application blanks will be furnished upon request.

SUPPORTING MEMBERSHIPS

Institutions and individuals who contribute at least one hundred dollars a year to the support of the School shall be supporting members and each such membership shall be entitled to one representative on the Advisory Council of the School. Institutions contributing two hundred dollars or more are entitled to share in the finds made by the School. ~~Checks should be made payable to the American School of Prehistoric Research, William G. Redfield, Treasurer, and sent to the New Haven Park, N. R. A., New Haven, Conn.~~

FIELD AND NEED

The field is primarily the Old World where the earliest known skeletal and cultural remains of man have thus far been found and where the chances of adding to our knowledge along these lines are the best. The need is exceeded only by the extent of the field and the opportunity to serve science in particular and mankind in general in a more efficient manner than could be done through any other channel.
